What would you say to that according to your theory? Prince.--True Christian teaching does not even allow such a stating of the question. The Gospel solution of it is expressed with particular clearness and force in the parable of the husbandmen. The husbandmen imagined that the garden into which they were sent to work for the proprietor was their own property, that everything in the garden was made for them and that their business was only to enjoy themselves in that garden for life, forgetting about the owner and slaying those who reminded them of him and of their obligations to him. Now, nearly all people are like those husbandmen, and live in the foolish assurance that they themselves are masters of their life and that it is given to them for their enjoyment. But this is obviously foolish. Of course if we are sent here, it is at the will of someone and to some end. Now we people, we have decided that we are like mushrooms; we were born and we live only for our own pleasure; it is evident, however, that we are wrong, just as the workman would be wrong who did not carry out his master s will. Now the will of the master is expressed in the teaching of Christ. Only let people carry out this teaching, and the Kingdom of God will be established on earth and people will receive the greatest good accessible...
