RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 112 pages. LC Number: KF27 . H6 2007k OCLC Number: (OCoLC)234430899 Subject: Slave labor -- Washington (D. C.). Excerpt: . . . 13 The information follows: The C. I would also like to recognize Zach Wamp, Mem-HAIRMAN ber of Congress, from the great State of Tennessee. Thank you. Senator. Senator Lincoln. STATEMENT OF BLANCHE LINCOLN, A UNITED STATES SENATOR FROM THE STATE OF ARKANSAS Senator L. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. And to Chairman INCOLN Brady and Ranking Member Ehlers, who I served with in Congress here in the House, I want to thank you all for holding this hearing today to examine what we all believe is a very important issue that has gone unrecognized for far too long. The eloquent statement of my friend and former colleague John Lewis, so grateful to his passion as well as, I think, the way he pre-sents our responsibility here to make sure that we complete his-tory, is very, very important. And I, too, was delighted to have Con-gressman Lewis in Arkansas as we dedicated Central High and the incredible place that it holds in history. And I think that as mem-bers of the task force, that is what we want to see happen here is to make sure that there is a place in history where these toils and certainly talents are recognized. Even though our majestic Capitol has served as a meeting place for both the House of Representatives and the United States Sen-ate for nearly two centuries, it was only more recently that the public attention has been given to the fact that slave laborers were involved in constructing the building, which is the center of our legislative branch of government. And, of course, that was discov-ered...
